The Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers (SNAME) is an internationally recognized society of individual members serving the maritime and offshore industries and their suppliers. With more than 6,000 members in 95 countries, SNAME is THE international community for maritime and ocean professionals.

Entering its 127th year, the SNAME Maritime Convention (formerly the SNAME Annual Meeting) remains the best place to connect with your prime buying audience—engineers, designers, shipbuilders, and operators. Powered by SNAME, this is the one industry event of the year that unites the entire maritime industry.
When you exhibit here, you'll connect with thousands of decision makers and specifiers actively assessing the latest technologies, services, and products for today’s shipbuilding projects. There’s no better place to network and build relationships directly with your target market—ensuring premium exposure and optimum ROI.
